CITIZENS OPPOSED to a bow-and-arrow deer hunt on NSTL property gather on the roadway outside the south gate of the NSTL installation Friday to voice their concerns, sign petitions and plan future strategies to oppose the hunt announced recently by U.S. Army officials. Protesters meet near NSTL to oppose Army's deer hunt

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT
Some 120 persons from Hancock, Harrison and Pearl River Counties—many of them hunters and sportsmen—gathered near the south gate of the National Space Technology Laboratories Friday evening to demonstrate their opposition to deer hunting on the northern portion of NSTL lands.

The U.S. Army recently announced plans to open its ammunition plant lands leased at NSTL to bow-and-arrow hunting to alleviate an overpopulation of deer.

Bob Bowman, who helped organize the demonstration along with Ronnie Ferrell, said Capt. Aaron Cobb of the ammunition plant told him Thursday in a telephone conversation he would be willing to meet with Bowman and other concerned individuals to discuss the matter.

But Army officials were not specifically invited to attend the Friday gathering, Bowman said.

And neither Army nor NSTL spokesmen were present.

The primary purpose of the demonstration, several persons said, was to elicit attention and publicity from the news media.

Ronnie Ferrell of Bay St. Louis said there are two main issues involved: —A questionable survey of the deer population conducted in March, 1983, by the Mississippi Department of Wildlife and Fisheries when, protesters, assert, high waters had caused deer to move into the area from lower flooded areas.

—A pledge from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration when the NSTL installation was first established that the area would be maintained as a wildlife refuge and that hunting would never be allowed there.

"If a proper study were done and they still said the area was overpopulated I wouldn't be opposed to a hunt," Levi Odum of Pearl River said.

"It's a slap in the face to NASA management," Danny McDaniel said. "They have fine professional people on their staff all the way from nuclear physicists to marine biologists, and it's a direct slap in their face and to their efforts to preserve game in this area."

"I don't feel deer have anything to do with it," Cliff Mitchell of Pearl River said.

"I think it's a couple of people who are trying to prove they're all-powerful."

Cynthia Hatten of Long Beach said she is "against hunting 100 percent anyway."

"But the fact they're using bows and arrows makes it much more brutal."

Hatten is a member of Fund for Animals, a New York-based organization noted for its efforts to save endangered animals.

"I think it's a shame for them to open a slaughterhouse here for pet deer," Hancock Supervisor Sam Pernicaro said.

"They're going to murder deer that will eat out of your hands."

Waveland ends FY 84 with $100,000 surplus

By DENA BISNETTE
The Waveland Board of Aldermen approved an amended budget for the 1983-84 fiscal year and finished most of the work on its 1984-85 budget Wednesday.

"We finished about $100,000 in the black," Mayor John Longo Jr. said of the amended budget. The $100,000 surplus will be added to the 1984-85 budget.

Approval of the 1984-85 budget is being delayed until the aldermen set the new millage rates for the city, Longo said. The rate is presently 28 mills but is expected to change in accordance with new property values set during the county reassessment.

The original budget for the city's general fund for current fiscal year, which ends Sept. 30, totaled $1,117,560. Longo said the $100,000 difference resulted from a combination of lower expenditures than anticipated and increases in city revenues from water sales and sales tax.

Expenditures estimated for next year's budget, which totals $1,207,025, and affected by the surplus include capital outlays for a new $55,000 police station, purchase of additional cemetery land and street paving.

While discussing the utilities budget, the aldermen agreed to give senior citizens who pay their gas and water bills on time a five percent discount for the first quarter of 1984.

The first quarter bill the discount applies to will include the cold months of December, January and February.

"The discount is an experiment this year and if it works out where it's really not a hazard to the city and we can handle it, we'll do it again," Longo said.

"We like to help the senior citizens as much as we can."

However, the aldermen also decided to raise the charges for new utility connections by $25, bringing the gas connection fee to $175 and the water connection fee to $150.

The increases are expected to help offset revenue lost to the city utilities system through the senior citizens discount.

Ladner, however, contended that he was still representing the residents of Beat One and felt he should be allowed to keep his school board seat because he had changed beats through no fault of his own.

The opinion, issued Aug. 3 by Special Assistant Attorney General Phillip Carter, referred to a similar situation that occurred in Waltham County last year. In that situation, two incumbent school board members placed in the same beat through redistricting were allowed to serve until their terms expired.

Carter's opinion also stated that a new school board member should be elected from Beat One according to the new district lines should Ladner's term become vacant.

By DENA BISNETTE

George Ladner of Pearlinton will be able to keep his seat on the Hancock County School Board until his term expires, according to an opinion from the state attorney general's office.

Hancock County Election Commission Secretary Charles Gottschalk requested the opinion last month because Ladner, who was elected to represent Beat One, lives in a precinct that was moved to Beat Two during redistricting.

Gottschalk made the request after hearing complaints from Beat One citizens, who felt they were not being represented because Ladner was no longer a Beat One resident.

Ladner, however, contended that he was still representing the residents of Beat One and felt he should be allowed to keep his school board seat because he had changed beats through no fault of his own.

The opinion, issued Aug. 3 by Special Assistant Attorney General Phillip Carter, referred to a similar situation that occurred in Waltham County last year. In that situation, two incumbent school board members placed in the same beat through redistricting were allowed to serve until their terms expired.

Carter's opinion also stated that a new school board member should be elected from Beat One according to the new district lines should Ladner's term become vacant.

Committee to recommend election for new jail only

By ELLIS CUEVAS

The Hancock County Jail Committee will recommend the construction of a new jail only on the November ballot.

The board of supervisors had asked the committee to recommend either a new jail or a new jail plus courthouse expansion.

Discussions were held Saturday morning as to whether an extension to the county courthouse should be included with construction of a new jail.

Lana Noonan, secretary of the committee, introduced the motion to recommend to the board of supervisors that the jail only be placed on the November ballot.

In opening the meeting Jail Committee Chairman Terrence Feeney noted the proposal for construction of a new jail was narrowly defeated in last November's election.

Feeney said, "The supervisors have been under a lot of pressure to add to the present courthouse or to undertake construction of a complete new facility at another location to include the jail and courthouse."

Hancock County Sheriff Ronald Peterson, Bay St. Louis Police Chief Douglas Williams and Waveland Police Chief Donald Dorn all indicated that everyone knows there is a serious need for a new jail.

Sam Pernicaro, District Four supervisor and member of the Jail Committee, reported several people from Hancock County visited Brookhaven and checked a new courthouse, jail and city hall complex there.

The supervisors have those plans on file, he said.

Pernicaro added, "The supervisors had a meeting with the mayors of Bay St. Louis and Waveland to discuss the possibility of constructing a central complex for the county and cities."

"Mayor (Larry) Bennett said he was against moving the Bay St. Louis City Hall," Pernicaro stated.

Biggest enrollment ever expected in county district

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

Hancock County School District trustees met Saturday morning to finalize preparations for the opening of the school year.

Superintendent Terrell Randolph said the projected enrollment for 1984-85 is about 2,400 students.

"We're expecting the biggest enrollment we've ever had," he announced.

The trustees rescinded an Aug. 6 motion to purchase a single trailer for classroom use at Hancock North Central and agreed to purchase a double trailer instead.

"That will give us another classroom for about 30 percent more money," Randolph said, adding that about 80 more students are expected to attend HNC this fall.

The board approved employment of the following staff: Carol Ann Buxton, elementary teacher, Gulfview Elementary School; Linnea Robinson, special education substitute teacher, HNC; Polly Boswell and Judy Rawls, Chapter I aides, HNC Elementary; Cindy Doyle, teacher assistant, Charles B. Murphy Elementary; Ronda Gullette, cheerleader sponsor, Charles B. Murphy; Walter Acker, substitute and/or part-time janitor, Charles B. Murphy; and Gayle Kosbab and Irene Ritchie, substitute cafeteria workers, Gulfview Elementary.

The board also accepted resignations

In view of this, and because a recent offer by the State Departments of Corrections to construct a minimum security facility at Stennis International Airport elicited strong objections from area residents, Pernicaro said, "My recommendation is to build a jail where we are, because no matter where we would go we would get objections."

May seek new legislation

School officials, AG to meet to discuss sick pay

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT
Gulf Coast school superintendents will meet Thursday in Jackson with state officials to discuss sick leave for non-certified school employees—a benefit which has been provided for years in Mississippi schools and which now has apparently been ruled illegal. Hancock County School District Superintendent Terrell Randolph said the meeting will include Attorney

General Ed Pittman and State Auditor Ray Mabius. According to Randolph school districts have "traditionally" provided sick leave for noncertified school personnel—bus drivers, custodians, cafeteria workers and clerical personnel. But in January the Attorney General advised a Noxubee County School District superintendent the law providing for sick and emergency leave with pay pertains only to teachers.

"The term 'teacher' shall include any full-time employee of a school district who is required by law to obtain a teacher's license from the state board of education and who is assigned to an instructional area of work as defined by the state department of education the equivalent of a minimum of three normal periods per school day," the opinion reads.

That opinion was repeated in April in response to an inquiry from the Marion County School District superintendent.

"The position of this office remains as stated," the April response states.

"Sick and personal leave is limited to teachers...and could not be extended to noncertified personnel, such as bus drivers, custodian, lunchroom workers, secretaries, etc." "If it's not specifically authorized by law, they take the position it's illegal," Hancock County School District Attorney Joseph Gex commented about the Attorney General's opinion.

"My recommendation is to see if we can find any authority to provide sick leave," Randolph said. "If not, we should get legislation introduced to allow sick leave and personal leave for noncertified personnel."

Randolph said it was his understanding Jackson County officials have already drafted such a bill.

Mabius, he said, is included in the Jackson meeting because he will undoubtedly take exceptions when he audits us.

Funeral services were held Saturday at 10 a.m. at Edmond Fahey Funeral Home in Bay St. Louis, followed by burial in the Waveland Cemetery.

Mr. Eustis was a native of New Orleans and an Episcopalian. He was a member of Hancock County Farm Bureau and the Mississippi Cattlemen's Association.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Billie Eustis of Anna; three brothers, Edward Eustis of Gainesville, Fla., Cartwright Eustis and Horatio Eustis, both of New Orleans; and one sister, Mrs. Katherine Sutter of New Orleans.

De-Ahna's owner files for bankruptcy, charged with copyright infringement

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

Digna A. Ray, owner of De-Ahna's Night Gallery, a Bay St. Louis nightclub, has filed for bankruptcy.

A meeting of creditors is scheduled for Sept. 5 at the Federal Building in Biloxi.

According to the Notice to Creditors, Ray lists secured claims of $37,178 and unsecured claims of $19,357.

The bankruptcy plan proposes monthly payments of $2,280 to Trustee Donald D. Simmons of Gulfport, with unsecured claims to be paid 70 cents on the dollar, the notice states.

Ray is also being sued for copyright infringement.

Broadcast Music Inc. is asking $2,000 in damages for alleged performances of eight musical compositions to which BMI claims public performance rights.

According to the suit filed Wednesday in federal court in Biloxi, the eight songs were performed at De-Ahna's over a three-year period.

The songs include "Jack Daniels If You Please" by David Allan Coe, "He Stopped Loving Her Today" by Bobby Braddock and Curly Putman and "Satin Sheets" by John E. Volinkatz.

Board okays regulations for new 'living will' law

Last week the State Board of Health approved regulations governing administration of Mississippi's 'Living Will' law which went into effect July 1.

The regulations go into effect Sept. 9. The law allows doctors to stop life-sustaining treatment for persons who have filed 'living wills' if they become terminally ill.

The law allows any state resident 18 or older to file a living will, which gives doctors permission to withdraw artificial life-sustaining measures in case of terminal illness or when there is no expectation of my regaining consciousness or a state of health that is meaningful to me.

The person must sign and date the document, including his or her address, Social Security number and information about next-of-kin.

Two witnesses must also sign the one-page form.

According to a spokesman for the national Right to Die Society in New York, Mississippi is the only state among the 23 that have passed 'living will' legislation which requires the wills to be filed with a state agency.

Other states allow the wills to be kept by doctors, lawyers or family members.

In Mississippi, the Health Department's Vital Statistics Division will administer the law, which was passed with the provision that an 'imminent death' condition be determined by an attending physician with concurrence of two other physicians.

The filing fees for wills will be determined at a future meeting of the Board of Health.

Wills can be revoked and removed from the files if persons change their minds and a will is automatically voided in cases where women who have made wills are pregnant.

The document will also allow people to donate their organs on the same form.

State driver's licenses already include organ-donation clauses.

Military Mention

AIRMAN McDONALD

Airman Dorward J. McDonald, nephew of Leonard G. and Shirley A. Morse of 3 Cedar Lane, Bay St. Louis, has been assigned to Keesler Air Force Base after completing Air Force basic training.

During the six weeks at Lackland Air Force Base, Tex., the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special training in human relations.

In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree in applied science through the Community College of the Air Force.

The airman will now receive specialized instruction in the communications-electronics systems field.

He is a 1984 graduate of Bay Senior High School, Bay St. Louis.

Martin Marietta to study reusable space device

Martin Marietta Aerospace has been chosen to conduct a 15-month study of a reusable orbital transfer vehicle (OTV), intended to reduce the cost of deploying satellites and spacecraft into high orbit, including geosynchronous orbit.

The $1 million contract was one of two awarded by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's (NASA) Marshall Space Flight Center for Parallel OTV concept definition studies.

The second study went to Boeing Aerospace Company.

Flying out of the cargo bay of the Space Shuttle or from a space station, the OTV would be used to boost payloads weighing up to 16,000 pounds to higher orbits.

This vehicle would be different from existing upper stage rocket vehicles in that it could be used for up to 30 missions before requiring total refurbishment or replacement.

When used with the Shuttle the OTV would be mated with a satellite or other spacecraft and carried into space in the cargo bay. The OTV would maneuver its payload to a new orbit, then would use its rocket engines to start a descent.

As it passed through the earth's atmosphere at an altitude of about 38 miles the OTV would begin to slow, and a large aerobrake 40 to 50 feet in diameter would help reduce the vehicle's speed even further. Then, due to orbital dynamics, it would begin to coast back up into a higher and higher orbit.

When the OTV reached the orbital altitude desired, the OTV's rocket engines would again be fired to circularize its orbit for retrieval by the Space Shuttle or by an orbital maneuvering vehicle dispatched from a space station.

OTV operation in conjunction with a space station would be much the same as with the Shuttle except that the OTV would not be brought back to earth after each mission. Instead, it would be stored and refurbished at the space station.

Robert B. Demoret, OTV program director for Martin Marietta, said the OTV would be used primarily to place NASA, Department of Defense or commercial communications satellites into geosynchronous orbit.

CARD OF THANKS

The doctors, administration and staff of Hancock General Hospital would like to take this opportunity to publicly thank Mr. Archie Courge and the Jopla Temple Shriners for their assistance and concern regarding the transport of Glen Bennett to the Shriners Burn Center in Galveston, Texas, recently.

Mr. Courge totally organized the transport, and we appreciate his kindness and concern for Glen Bennett, who suffered second and third degree burns to 60 percent of his body.

Another public thank you goes to John Rester, president of Mobile Medic Ambulance Service for expediting the transport of Glen Bennett by ambulance to Gulfport Regional Airport, where he was flown by private airplane to Galveston.

The dedication and generosity of all involved in this emergency situation are greatly appreciated by all of those at Hancock General Hospital.

Sincerely,
Phillip W. Langston

LaGrone speaks on nuclear waste

Dr. Don LaGrone, a Biloxi pediatrician, was featured speaker at the Coast Counties Medical Assistants' monthly meeting recently at Shoney's in Biloxi.

LaGrone gave a program on nuclear waste in Mississippi.

A native of Tulsa, Okla., LaGrone attended Tulane University and Medical School, received his M.D. degree in 1973. His internship and residency were completed at the University of Oregon in Portland.

LaGrone noted that nuclear waste stored in canisters could not be guaranteed after 10 years. He also stated that nuclear waste can migrate through the salt domes and to soil and water supplies, resulting in contamination of food, animals and humans. He also stated that all forms of radiation can cause cancer.

The next meeting will be on Tuesday, Aug. 28 and members will be notified of time and place.

How many of us remember our first inoculation? Maybe we didn't quite understand the pain — but we didn't get measles, either. Or diphtheria. Or a host of diseases we're protected from because we live in this century.

So what's the main danger now? Neglecting to get inoculated. Taking our prized protection for granted and risking our children's health. Fortunately, most states now require immunization against certain childhood diseases when a child starts school. By consulting your physician, you'll stay alert to all the inoculations your children need as they grow up.

Remembering helps. Polio was a dread disease as recently as 30 years ago. Let's not let it happen again. Our kids need protection, even if it means they have to cry a little.

Curtis Johnson of Curtis North America Inc. has filed a $9 million lawsuit against the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission, its executive director and members, all individually and as commission officials.

Johnson is president of Mississippi Pumping Services Inc. which operates an oil well waste disposal system at Port Bienville Industrial Park.

His suit alleges the commission acted capriciously and arbitrarily when it adopted a resolution notifying him that emissions from his company's drying apparatus violated his lease agreement with the county.

According to Johnson's complaint, Mississippi Pumping Services and the county entered into a lease-option agreement in August, 1983 in connection with the company's construction of an incinerator or dryer to process and dispose of waste drilling fluids.

"The purpose of the lease was well known to the members and employees of the commission," the complaint alleges.

According to the complaint, the company obtained a permit from the Department of Natural Resources' Bureau of Pollution Control to construct a drying apparatus, expended "considerable" sums for the design and construction of the machine and employed engineers to design the necessary facilities to operate the dryer.

The complaint further alleges that on Oct. 19 and Nov. 7 representatives of another company—Borg-Warner Corp.—wrote to the commission complaining of alleged detrimental effects which emissions from the drying apparatus would allegedly have on its operation and the health of its employees, and threatening to cease further expansions of their company's plant at Port Bienville.

On Nov. 10, the complaint continues, commission members were advised that emissions from the proposed apparatus were minimal and well within acceptable limits set out by the Bureau of Pollution Control.

"Notwithstanding this advice...that same night the commission adopted a resolution notifying Mississippi Pumping Service that the emissions permitted by the Department of Natural Resources would violate a provision of the lease between Curtis North America Inc. and the commission."

The commission's resolution, a copy of which is attached to the complaint as an exhibit, was introduced by Commissioner David McDonald, seconded by Commissioner Victor Frankiewicz Jr. and unanimously adopted.

The resolution directs and authorizes the commission director "to notify Mississippi Pumping Service the agreement drawn on Aug. 29, 1983, states that emission from anticipated operation at Port Bienville shall be dust free and, according to the construction permit issued by the Mississippi Department of Natural Resources, Bureau of Pollution Control Permit Board, the emission characteristic concerning particulate matter may be up to 12.7 pounds per hour. Any particulate emission will be in violation of the agreement."

As a consequence of this notification, the complaint states, the company was forced to suspend its efforts to construct the drying apparatus for fear of the economic consequences which would ensue from the position of the commission.

The suit contends the commission's action was "arbitrary, capricious, in bad faith, and was taken solely for the purpose of appeasing another tenant at the facility without regard to the rights of plaintiff."

On March 8, 1984, the suit states, the commission unanimously adopted a resolution urging the board of supervisors to declare the lease null and void on the ground that plaintiff did not fulfill its obligation under the lease to begin construction within six months of the date of the execution of the lease.

"Said information was false and...was transmitted to the...board...for the sole purpose of causing it to cancel said lease and to deny the plaintiff the right to exercise its option to purchase the property."

The lease has not been cancelled but the company has been prevented from using the property for the purpose for which it was leased, the complaint continues.

The suit also alleges that the action of the commission was in direct retaliation for critical statements Johnson made about the commission, its members and employees.

The suit claims the company has suffered damages in the sum of $3 million as a result of defendants' interference with present and prospective contractual relations.

In addition to requests for other damages in the total amount of an additional $3 million, the suit asks for $1.5 million punitive damages to Johnson and $1.5 million punitive damages to Curtis North America Inc.

A jury trial is requested. Defendants in the suit include James C. DeBlanc, commission director; and commission members Ronald Artigues, David McDonald, Oliver Frierson, Harry Baxter and former commission members Victor Frankiewicz Jr., Herbert Zengarleng and Perry Gibson.

Lucien Gex of Gex and Adams is Johnson's attorney. In February Johnson and Mississippi Pumping Services filed a $20 million lawsuit against Borg-Warner in Federal District Court in Biloxi, claiming Borg-Warner interfered with Johnson's lease with the commission and with prospective contracts.

In that suit Johnson asks for $15 in punitive damages.

Grant to be requested for Bayou Cadet harbor

About 20 commercial fishermen attended a Wednesday meeting with members of the Hancock County Board of Supervisors, Bureau of Marine Resources representatives and State Senator Gary Eugene Taylor met Wednesday to show their support for a proposal to develop a harbor at Bayou Cadet.

Taylor, who organized the meeting, said he plans to try to obtain one of 12 $500,000 Community Development Block Grants allocated to the state to pay half the cost of the project. The other half would be raised locally by issuing revenue bonds, he said.

A public hearing on the grant has been tentatively set for Sept. 4, with the time and place still to be announced.

Bureau of Marine Resources Director Richard Leard said an additional $10,000 may be available through his agency to begin development plans.

The proposal calls for the development of a harbor similar to the one at Pass Christian, which has about 200 boat slips.

The proposed marina at Bayou Cadet would be built as near the end of Beach Road as possible and would extend along the road.

Taylor said the surrounding marshes would not have to be dredged and most of the work could be done by the supervisors and county equipment.

The money raised at the harbor from slip rentals and other services would be used to repay the bonds, he added.

Taylor stressed the importance of attendance at the public hearing, because the number of people there must be included in the grant application and becomes a factor in consideration for the program.

County to borrow $400,000 for new hospital facility

The county plans to borrow $400,000 to pay for architectural and engineering plans for a new building for Hancock General Hospital.

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors is permitted under recent legislation to issue limited tax notes to pay the fees, according to hospital attorney Robert Genin Jr.

The limited tax notes will be payable within the next three years and are to be repaid through a three-mill tax levy. Because the hospital now gets three and a half mills, no tax increase would be required.

However, 20 percent of the county's registered voters may call for a vote on the issuance of limited tax notes if they protest through a written petition.

In addition, the hospital board plans to apply for funding from the Federal Housing Administration, which requires that architectural and engineering plans be submitted before funding can be made available. If the FHA approves the funding, the $400,000 will be included.

Including the $400,000 in the FHA funding would cancel the county's debt on the limited tax notes, thereby eliminating the need to repay it through millage.

The new hospital facility was approved

Recruiting film features Keesler AFB nurses

Many of Keesler Air Force Base's nurses were recently actors and actresses in an Air Force recruiting film that will be sent to recruiters nationwide.

This film for recruiting nurses will replace the current film which was made in the early 1970's, according to Maj. Richard Borenstein, chief of creative recruiting advertising.

Borenstein arrived at Keesler June 24 with members of Horizon Productions, a film crew contracted by the national advertising agency D'Arcy MacManis Masius out of New York.

The crew began filming the following day and departed June 30.

"We tried to get the total picture of the Air Force nurse's life. We filmed footage of the home environment, coming to work, and working in all facets of a nurse's role," explained Borenstein.

Thirty to 40 percent of Keesler's nursing staff played parts in the film which is expected to be finished this fall. If everything goes okay, the major said.

"We chose Keesler for the filming because of the new medical facility, the large nursing staff, and the availability of the C-6 medical evacuation aircraft," Borenstein said.

Justice court judge clears books, turns over $11,192 to supervisors

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

Justice Court Judge Bruce Necaise has turned over $11,192 to the Hancock Board of Supervisors from monies collected for almost two years for which he had no corresponding tickets or affidavits.

Along with the funds Necaise submitted a list Monday of names and amounts ranging from $17 to $485 on 106 money orders.

Necaise said at first he planned to hold the money orders until auditors came, but because some were good only until a certain date he discussed the matter with the county prosecutor and then deposited them in a bank account.

Necaise speculated that the missing tickets may not have been turned in by law enforcement officers or that the monies may have been intended for other judges.

Or, he admitted, he could have lost them.

Chancery Clerk E. Michael Necaise said the judge turned over the money to the county so he could clear his books.

In January a new justice court system took effect which reduced the number of county judges from five to two and established court clerk positions to handle the administrative affairs of the judges.

The first nation to receive foreign aid from the United States was Venezuela. The money was appropriated in 1812 to help victims of an earthquake.

Hurricane Hunters name commander

Lt. Col. Dennis D. Wood assumed the command of the 53rd Weather Reconnaissance Squadron at Keesler Air Force Base in recent change of command ceremonies at the squadron's building.

Wood, the 53rd's operations officer since July 1982, replaced Lt. Col. Donald K. Whitney in the Hurricane Hunter's top position.

Whitney reports later this month as the assistant director of operations at the Air Force Technical Application Center, Patrick AFB, Fla.

Wood came to Keesler in 1982 from the 463rd Tactical Air Wing, Dyess AFB, Texas, where he served as chief, resource plans branch, resource management division, and later as the assistant chief of the division.

A veteran of 380 combat sorties and 1,015 combat hours, Wood's decorations include the Meritorious Service Medal with one oak leaf cluster, the Air Force Commendation Medal, Air Medal with nine oak leaf clusters, Presidential Unit Citation, Korean Service Medal, Vietnam Service Medal and Republic of Vietnam Campaign Medal. The colonel holds a master navigator aeronautical rating with more than 5,000 flying hours.

The change of command ceremonies included many base officials and Col. Robert Riechert, 41st Rescue Weather and Reconnaissance Wing commander, and Chief Master Sgt. William Osterdorf, senior enlisted advisor for the 41st, which is the 53rd's parent unit headquartered at McClellan AFB, Calif.

Lack of courtesy alleged at food stamp office

August 13, 1984
Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Editor,

I'm writing you about the way people are being treated at the food stamp office.

It's bad enough when people are down and out reaching for help and are treated inhuman.

An incident happened when a relative of mine was unemployed and needed the help of the Hancock County Food Stamp Office.

She had went to the office to collect her stamps and as she was walking to the desk, the secretary had asked her in a rude tone of voice to see her food stamp card and take a number and be seated.

When her number was called, the secretary told her in an unsatisfied fashion that her stamps had been cut off. There was no explanation or reasoning.

As a young concerned American, I think it is awful how people can be treated that way when they are reaching out for help.

Because if it wasn't for the people collecting food stamps, they wouldn't have a job.

I surely hope that the attitudes of workers in the food stamp office will change, thinking they are better than the people that collect food stamps, because they are the people that employ them.

Thank you,
Michelle Rose

Senator Stennis salutes 'Hancock Day At The Fair' participants

Dear Friends:

Please accept my warm greetings as you celebrate Hancock County Day at New Orleans' World's Fair.

I regret that I cannot be there with you; but, I know that you will be extremely successful in letting others from around the world know the fine qualities of your part of Mississippi.

I have taken great joy in working to bring federal services into Hancock County, especially those at the National Space Technology Laboratories.

I am proud of the job you have done to show that those efforts are worthwhile. I hope that working together we can continue to build the economic base at Hancock County.

I hope that all of you will feel free to call on me at any time as your representative and friend in Washington. With warm regards, I am

Man who talks to dogs reveals canine plans to sue City of Waveland

To the Editor:

NEWS-FLASH WAVELAND TO BE SUED BY DOG

Poochy Poo D'Almatian, a local dog who is a cross between a poodle and a dalmatian, plans to enter a class action lawsuit against the mayor and board of aldermen of the city of Waveland.

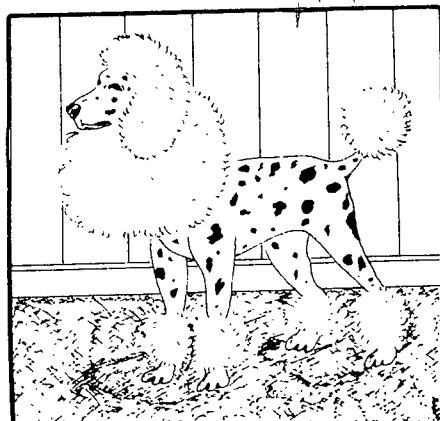

Poochy's lawsuit, in which he will represent all of the dogs in the Bay-Waveland area, will claim discrimination, mental pain and anguish and extreme embarrassment.

The potential lawsuit is the result of a recent Waveland law designed to fine owners of unleashed dogs up to $100.

"Why should only dogs be leashed?" asks Poochy. "It is unconstitutional, preposterous and assinine. If this thing is not nipped in the bud, it may grow to take in Bay St. Louis and, tomorrow, the world...and I'm not barking up the wrong tree!"

Poochy makes his arguments in the form of a song:

Please don't leash me, let me go.
I don't want no leash no more.
If you gotta leash defenseless dogs,
Then why not leash the bees and frogs?

POOCHY POO DALMATIAN

Everyone but us roams free,
Even birdies in the tree.
You have never leashed a brat
Or put a leash upon a cat.

You cross your fingers when you say:
'Every dog must have its day.'
Please don't leash us, let us be,
So, like the others, we'll be free!"

Rare act of kindness could start a trend

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

"Put your money back in your purse," the man said in a not unpleasant but definitely commanding voice.

This man had just done an amazing act of kindness.

In the heat of the August sun he had left his work to cross busy Highway 90 in Pass Christian to rescue my car from heavy traffic and change a tire that had blown when the car hit a piece of metal being wind-swept across the road.

When I protested he said, "Pass it on. You will some day be in a position to do a fellow man a favor. Do it. Do it gladly and freely. Just ask him to pass the favor on—that's really the only way we can hope to cure some of the wrongs we live with. Man's greed. Man's lack of caring for others."

I am deeply moved. This is the type of religion I can use! His philosophy of action and caring should be passed along! Through the courtesy of this column in the Echo I am passing along Mr. Capo's vital message with the sure and certain faith that it will be a far-reaching influence for good. Let's follow his lead! PASS IT ON.

BIG LIMB—A large limb from an oak is being cut by Raymond Richardson in the Cedar Rest Cemetery on Thursday. The limb, itself the size of many trees, fell between several tombs, grave markers and damaged one fenced plot. There appears to

We have been receiving a lot of comments from persons who are planning on going to the World's Fair for the Salute to Hancock County Day on Monday.

The Bay Rotary Club on Wednesday had an opportunity of hearing Tish Haas, director of the Mississippi Pavilion.

The Bay St. Louis native gave a very interesting talk about the World's Fair and the big role being played by our state.

The latest report we have is that four buses have been chartered by the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce for local citizens and they are filled.

It looks like Hancock will have a good representative group when you include the individuals, organizations and groups who are going to be there.

We have our bus ticket and hope to see many of you in New Orleans for Hancock County Day at the fair.

The recent climb in temperatures does not give the feeling of football season which will be opening in only a few weeks.

Area high school teams are gearing up with pregame practices and we know many fans are waiting for the opening kick-offs.

We wish all of our teams a big success for the 1984 season.

Health, welfare agency heads report short staffs

The heads of the State Department of Public Welfare and the State Board of Health recently told a special Senate study committee on Mississippi's health care system that their agencies are understaffed and salaries need to be increased.

Dr. Donald Roark of the Department of Public Welfare said, "We are grossly understaffed, primarily at the county level where services are rendered. Our people are working nights and weekends to do what we are mandated to do. I believe we are on the precipice of disaster. There is no humanly way our people can do what we expect."

He noted that Mississippi has the highest Aid to Dependent Children and food stamp case levels in the nation and that 582 additional positions would need to be filled over those currently authorized to reduce the case load to the southeastern average.

Roark said that there is a 21 percent turnover among eligibility case workers, much of it attributed to burnout because of the heavy workload.

Dr. Alton Cobb of the State Health Department said that the nursing and clerical salaries of his department in particular need to be raised and that there is a great need to fill some nutritionist positions.

Both agency heads noted a decline in federal and state funds in the past few years with an increase in the number of clients. They each listed cost containment measures being enacted to hold down their budgets.

Cobb said that the areas which his department would like to do more in are school health education; more emphasis on preventing of teenage pregnancies with more emphasis on educating males about birth control; and increasing the home health services program. He said that the most cost effective programs have been family planning which by helping prevent over 13,000 unwanted, unplanned pregnancies saved $13 million of public costs; WIC program; genetic screening which prevents retardation; immunization; and fluoridation.

Cecil Russell of the Independent Nursing Home Association listed several recommendations for the Legislature to consider including allowing an exception to the moratorium on nursing homes to allow the homes to increase to a 60-bed capacity which could add 716 beds in the state.

Rims Barber of the Children's Defense Fund advocated expanding the Medicaid Program to cover all pregnant women and children who meet the state's Standard of Need.

Sam Cameron of the Mississippi Hospital Association said that the three important issues facing hospitals are the cost of uncompensated care, the future of small and rural hospitals, and the effect of a prospective pricing system. He noted that in 1982 there was $258 million in health care costs which private patients had to pay for because of charity care, bad debts and costs not reimbursed fully by Medicaid and Medicare.

Buck Murphy of the Mississippi State Medical Association attributed the rising cost of health care to the high cost of technology and research; defensive medicine which causes some physicians to pay over $500 a week for malpractice insurance; and the structure of third party reimbursements.

Members of the Health Care Study Committee are Senators George Smith of Gulfport, chairman; Cy Rosenblatt of Jackson, vice chairman; Walter Graham of New Albany, Glen Deweese of Meridian, Billy Thames of Mize, Bob M. Dearing of Natchez, Bob Montgomery of Canton, Henry Kirksey of Jackson and Jack Gordon of Okolona.

FAIR DEBT COLLECTION

If you use credit cards, owe money on a loan, or are paying off a home mortgage, you are a "debtor." Most Americans are.

You may never come in contact with a debt collector. But if you do, Attorney General Pittman wishes you to know that there is a law that prohibits abusive practices by professional independent debt collection agencies. The Fair Debt Collection Practice Act was passed by Congress in 1977 to prohibit certain methods of debt collection. Of course, the law does not erase any legitimate debt you owe.

Here are some answers to some questions you may have about your rights under the Fair Debt Collection Act.

Q: What debts are covered?
A: Personal, family, and household debts are covered under the Act. This "includes" money owed for the purchase of a car, for medical care, or for charge accounts.

Q: Who is a debt collector?
A: A debt collector is anyone, other than the creditor or the creditor's attorney, who regularly collects debts for others.

Q: How may a debt collector contact you?
A: A debt collector may contact you in person, by mail, telephone, or telegram. However, a debt collector may not contact you at inconvenient or unusual times or places, such as before 8 a.m., or after 9 p.m., unless you agree. A debt collector may not contact you at work if your employer disapproves.

Q: Can you stop a debt collector from contacting you?
A: You may stop a debt collector from contacting you by writing a letter to the collection agency telling them to stop. Once they receive this letter, they may not contact you again except to say there will be no further contact. The debt collector is allowed to notify you that some specific action will be taken but only if the debt collector or the creditor intends to take such action.

Q: May a debt collector contact any other person concerning your debt?
A: If you have an attorney, the collector may not contact anyone but the attorney. If you do not have an attorney, a debt collector may contact other people, but only to find out where you live or work. In most cases, the collector is not allowed to tell anyone other than you or your attorney that you owe money. Collectors are usually prohibited from contacting any person more than once.

Q: What is the debt collector required to tell you about the debt?
A: Within five (5) days after you are first contacted, the debt collector must send you a written notice telling you the amount of money you owe; the name of the creditor to whom you owe the money; and what to do if you feel you do not owe the money.

Q: If you believe you do not owe the money, may a debt collector continue to contact you?
A: The debt collector may not contact you if you send the collector a letter within thirty days after you are first contacted saying you do not owe the money. However, a debt collector can begin collection activities again if you are sent proof of the debt, such as a copy of the bill.

Q: What types of debt collection practices are prohibited?
A: Harassment. Debt collectors may not harass, oppress or abuse any person, for example, debt collectors may not:

—Use threats of violence or harm to the person, property or reputation.
—Publish a list of consumers who refuse to pay their debts (except to a credit bureau).
—Repeatedly use the telephone to annoy someone.

—Telephone people without identifying themselves.
—Advertise your debt.

False Statements. Debt collectors may not use any false statements when collecting a debt. For example, debt collectors may not:

—Falsely imply that they are an attorney or government representative.
—Falsely imply that you have committed a crime.

—Falsely represent that they operate or work for a credit bureau.
—Misrepresent the amount of the debt.

—Indicate that papers being sent are legal forms when they are not.
—Indicate that papers being sent are not legal forms when they are.

Also, debt collectors may not say that:

—You will be arrested if you do not pay your debt.
—They will seize, garnish, attach, or sell your property or wages, unless the collection agency or the creditor intends to do so, and it is legal.

—Action will be taken against you which legally may not be taken.

Debt collectors may not:

—Give false credit information about you to anyone.
—Send you anything that looks like an official document which might be sent by any court or agency of the United States or any state or local government.
—Use any false name.

Unfair Practices. Debt collectors may not engage in unfair practices in attempting to collect a debt. For example, debt collectors may not:

—Collect any amount greater than your debt, unless allowed by law.

—Deposit a post-dated check before the date on the check.

—Make you accept collect calls or pay by telegrams.

—Take or threaten to take your property unless this can be done legally.

—Contact you by postcard.

—Put anything on an envelope other than the debt collector's address and name. Even the name can't be used if it shows that the communication is about the collection of a debt.

Q: What control do you have over specific debts?

A: If you owe several debts, any payment you make must be applied to the debt you choose. A debt collector may not apply a payment to any debt you feel you do not owe.

Q: What can you do if the debt collector breaks the law?

A: you have the right to sue a debt collector in a State or Federal court within one year from the date the law was violated. If you win, you may recover money for the damage you suffered. Court costs and attorney's fees also can be recovered. A group of people may sue a debt collector and recover money for damages up to $500,000, or one percent of the collector's net worth, whichever is less.

Additional information on fair debt collection practices may be obtained by calling the Attorney General's Office of Economic Protection. For consumers calling within the Jackson and surrounding area you may call 359-3065. Consumers calling outside the city limits may call collect on our toll-free hotline at 1-800-223-5615.

Mrs. Winter finds support from Hancock Countians

By DENA BISNETTE

The wife and daughter of former Governor William Winter visited Hancock County Thursday to speak to local residents about Winter's campaign for senate.

Mrs. Winter and her daughter Eleanor Winter, who is on leave from the staff of Senator John Stennis to assist with her father's campaign, started their tour of Hancock County with a short meeting with local Democratic Party representatives at Wheel Inn.

They also visited Pearlington residents at the Pearlington Post Office and a local grocery store; met with senior citizens in Bay St. Louis; talked to city and county officials at Bay St. Louis City Hall, Waveland City Hall and Hancock County Courthouse; and visited fishermen at Bayou Cadet.

In addition, Mrs. Winter made a brief address to about 15 people representing various occupations and civic groups at the Landmark Restaurant.

Mrs. Winter described her husband's campaign strategy, which includes reserving the use of television commercials and other media advertising until September.

Part of the reason, she said, is economic. "As you know, we Democrats don't have that much money as our Republican opponents are accustomed to spending," she said.

Mrs. Winter said she also feels that too much campaign time is spent on fundraising. "It shouldn't be that way, but I don't know how to get around it because the cost of running is almost becoming prohibitive."

"I feel that's harmful to the whole country, because it will eventually weed out everyone but the millionaires. She asked the group for campaign suggestions.

Mrs. Winter also spoke about Mississippi's need for a senator who would help the state's interests. "We need to let the rest of the country get to know us better and show them that we're not barefoot and backward. We need someone who will vote for our interests in Congress."

Both Mrs. Winter and her daughter answered questions on subjects ranging from Winter's views on education to Geraldine Ferraro, and both said they believe that Winter will receive a good reception when he visits the county later in the campaign because he is already known here.

"The first thing most of the people we've met today associate him with is his work on the Education Reform Act," she explained, "and the senior citizens remember his work on senior citizens' issues, welfare and utility reforms."

She added that the Gulf Coast is usually one of the better areas in the state as far as supporting her husband politically is concerned. However, she added that she does not expect this year's senatorial election to be typical of past elections.

"It's unusual because we have a classic struggle between two strong party opponents," Mrs. Winter explained.

"Our job will be to keep Democrats together," she added, explaining that party members have voted across party lines in the past for Winter's opponent, Senator Thad Cochran.

Margaret Taylor of Bay St. Louis, who organized the itinerary for Mrs. Winter's visit, said she felt Thursday's tour generated a good response.

"We tried to arrange it so they would meet with representatives from as many different groups in the county as possible, and we've met a lot of people interested in helping with the campaign," she commented.

Unemployment drops in first half of 84

By DENA BISNETTE

The unemployment rate in Hancock County fell 1.4 percentage points over the first six months of 1984, according to statistics from the Mississippi State Employment Service.

The county entered 1984 with a 10.6 percent rate for January and the rate has dropped every month since except June, the last month for which statistics are available.

The 9.2 percent June rate, according to Ann Ladner of the Bay St. Louis employment office, increased due to a seasonal expansion of the county's work force.

The county's work force included 9,630 people in June, including students who seek employment during the summer months only. Out of that work force, 890 people were unemployed and 8,740 had jobs.

According to Mrs. Ladner, 96 people were placed in jobs through the Bay St. Louis office last month.

The work force for June numbered 280 people more than in May, when the work force included 9,350 people with 750 unemployed and 8,600 employed. The May unemployment rate was 8 percent.

Rates for earlier in 1984 were 8.5 percent in April, or a work force of 9,210 people with 780 unemployed and 8,430 employed; and 9.3 percent in March, or a work force of 9,100 with 850 unemployed and 8,250 employed.

Unemployment was 10.3 percent in February, or a work force of 9,170 with 940 unemployed and 8,230 employed; and 10.6 percent in January, or a work force of 9,240 with 980 unemployed and 8,260 employed.

Mrs. Ladner said much of the drop in unemployment rates during the first half of 1984 can be attributed to expansion in local industry, particularly the Mason-Chamberlain plant at NSTL.

"Mason-Chamberlain has been affecting the unemployment rate since it dropped below 9 percent and is not in full production yet so we're hoping it will continue its effect as more people are hired," she said.

Mrs. Ladner added that the decrease in unemployment has also been caused by a seasonal increase in activity of industries affected by the weather, such as construction.

She added that a slight increase in unemployment related to these weather-affected industries is expected during winter months, but she said it is too early to tell how that increase will affect the overall rate for the second half of 1984.

Paralysis support group organizing

The Mississippi Paralysis Association has recently been chartered in Mississippi as a non-profit corporation.

The board of directors includes quadriplegics Thomas Lunardini, president; Michael Grace, vice president; Laura Pritchard, second vice president; Daryel Dunaway, secretary; and John Lee, treasurer.

The main function of the association will be to serve as a support group to the newly paralyzed and their families, offering friendship and emotional support, advise on home and van modifications, recommending least expensive sources for supplies, and suggesting possible agencies for financial assistance.

Plans are being formulated to inform members of promising spinal cord research and to encourage friendships through annual gatherings and fund raising benefits.

The board of directors will use money when available for funding promising spinal cord research.

A research is now being conducted across Mississippi for those paralyzed due to spinal cord injury.

Due to the Patient Privacy Act no lists are available from doctors or from the Mississippi Methodist Rehabilitation Center.

Membership in Mississippi Paralysis Association is available by writing P.O. Box 4288, Jackson, Ms. 39216 or calling 601-366-3672.

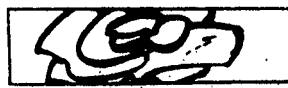

No membership fee is being charged at present. However, one of the greatest needs of the association is adequate funding.

Contributions from prospective members or friends of the paralyzed can be made and sent to the above address.

A memorial or contribution made in honor of a paralyzed friend will be acknowledged.

An organizational lakeside picnic is being planned for August in Jackson. All paralyzed Mississippians and their families are invited.

"The need for Mississippi Paralysis Association will grow because more people are surviving catastrophic injuries. Great strides have been made in rehabilitation, accessibility for the handicapped, and research. Your help and support are needed," Lunardini said.

Apples, pears, plums, cherries and almonds are all from the same family as the rose bush.

IS YOUR ADDRESS CORRECT?

This is the time of year when everyone should make sure they are using the correct mailing address.

You may be wondering, "Why this time of the year?"

Well, whether we like it or not, it is only 4 months until Christmas and already the Christmas catalogs and sales brochures are beginning to move through the mail.

Most of these pieces are addressed correctly and there will be no problem making delivery of them, but would you believe that we regularly receive mail with an address that was changed as much as six years ago?

We in the Postal Service want to serve our customers the best way we can, and even though we are required to forward third class mail locally for only one year, we still try to deliver mail on which the forwarding time has expired if we can.

This is at an extra cost to the Postal Service in the time that is involved, but we feel that our mailers and customers are the reason that we are in business and so we don't mind going that 'extra mile' to deliver something that we feel may have value for that customer who hasn't yet notified the sender of the change in his mailing address.

However, we need your help to keep your postage prices down.

Our services are based on handling our mail a minimum number of times and are priced accordingly. So, the fewer number of times that we have to handle your mail, the less money it costs the Postal Service and in the end, the less money it will cost our customers.

Last year, effective Sept. 3, 1983 we, in the Bay Saint Louis rural delivery area, underwent a rather extensive rural route adjustment.

This adjustment necessitated our having to change more than 600 rural route addresses.

According to Postal Service regulations, third and fourth class mail should not be delivered which is incorrectly addressed (i.e., addressed to the old address, addressed to a street address instead of a post office box number, etc.) if the change of address is more than one year old.

First class mail will be forwarded for a period of 18 months from the date of change.

Still, the sooner that your address is changed to the correct address, the less chance there is for us to misdeliver the mail to the old address. Incidentally, would you believe that last month we received 47 Social Security checks with

POST OFFICE POTPOURRI

By TOM HILL
Postmaster,
Bay St. Louis

the old addresses (prior to Sept. 3, 1983) still on them?

Things as important as this certainly should be changed as soon as possible. Things such as utility bills, hospital bills, bank accounts, magazine subscriptions, and other correspondence should be changed immediately to avoid misdelivery and possible loss of this mail.

In closing this article, we want to urge you to please check your mail when you receive it and if it is not addressed correctly, notify the sender of your correct address.

HOLLY TRIBUTE

Marshall Crenshaw is the featured performer on "Soundstage" at 9:30 p.m., Friday, Aug. 24, on Mississippi ETV.

In the program, taped at Chicago's Park West nightclub, Crenshaw sings "Mary Anne," "She Can't Dance," "The Usual Thing" and "Cynical Girl" and pays tribute to Chuck Berry and Buddy Holly with his rendition of "Brown-eyed Handsome Man."

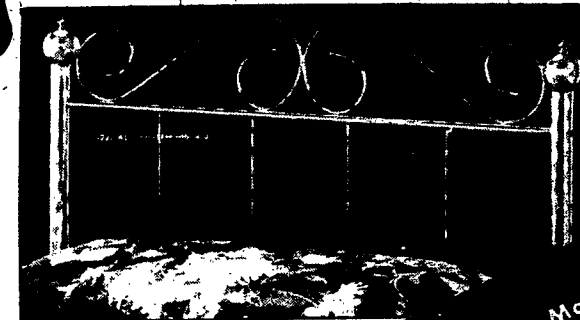

Crenshaw's early background reads like that of a typical up-and-coming rock star: the high school bands and the one-night gigs. It was all interrupted by a two-year stint as a John Lennon look-alike in the traveling production of "Beatlemania."

Though this would seem to be the big break every aspiring rock musician would cherish, it had the opposite effect on Crenshaw. Realizing "that what he was doing was more theater than rock and roll, Crenshaw left the production, locked himself into a hotel room and began writing songs.

Pacifism, minority right occupy Methodist Church's attention

Article VIII
Bicentennial of American Methodism.

By Katrina O. McDonald

Few of us will forget the date of Dec. 7, 1941 when Pearl Harbor was attacked. Of course, war in Europe and the Pacific had been going on for many months but this drew the United States directly into the conflict.

All three branches, which later became United Methodist, had published strong statements condemning war and urging reconciliation among nations then at war, but their position was weakened, once the U.S. was involved.

However, many members of these churches continued to express opposition and supported conscientious objectors. It was a real struggle for them to reconcile warfare and Christian commitment.

This deep feeling grew and as the war ended, laity, clergy, and many agencies supported the establishment of a world organization to serve as a forum for the solving of international problems.

It was believed this should cover social, economic and political questions. This culminated in April, 1945 with the founding of the United Nations. Though not successful in all its goals, this worldwide organization has accomplished great good and has brought about many changes. It was a major step forward in replacing constant conflict with arbitration and negotiation, and cooperation in solving worldwide problems.

The development of nuclear weapons and rocketry also created major social changes, worldwide.

During this period from World War II to the late 60s, there were at least three other matters which occupied the attention of the churches. One was their concern for ecumenicity and church union. The union of the Evangelical Church and the United Brethren Church was accomplished on Nov. 16, 1946 following negotiations since 1926.

At the time of their joining they had about 700,000 members.

Methodists were also interested in closer ties with other Methodist and Wesleyan bodies and in 1951 participated in the formation of the World Methodist Council.

Showing interest in wider ecumenical commitment, both groups—the Methodist and Evangelical United Brethren—became active members of the World Council of Churches founded in 1948 and the National Council of Churches founded in 1950.

Thus their members were able to take part in cooperative mission and ministries.

The second important question in the churches at this time was that of racism, both in the nation and in the churches.

Methodists were very disturbed over the manner in which racism was built into the denominational structure i.e. the Central Jurisdiction, a constant reminder of discrimination.

Proposals were introduced from 1956 to 66 at General Conference to change this and finally with the organization of the United Methodist Church in 1968, it was abolished.

The third matter was clergy rights for women. It had been a critical issue in the creation of the Evangelical United Brethren Church, as the Evangelical Church had never ordained women and the United Brethren had since 1889.

The latter church in order to facilitate the union, accepted the Evangelical position, and women lost their right to ordination.

Methodists debated the issue for years but in 1956, full clergy rights were granted though it took several years more for the number to grow significantly.

When the Methodists and Evangelical United Brethren united in 1968, the right of women to full clergy status was included in the plan of union.

On April 23, 1968 the United Methodist Church was created when Bishop Reuben H. Mueller, representing the Evangelical United Brethren Church and Bishop Lloyd C. Wicke of the Methodist Church joined hands at the constituting General Conference in Dallas, Tex.

With the words, "Lord of the Church, we are united in Three, in Thy Church and now in the 'United Methodist Church' the new denomination was given birth by two churches which had distinguished histories and influential ministries in the United States and abroad.

Thus was brought into being a church of more than 11 million members, 10 million from the Methodist Church and almost 750,000 from the Evangelical United Brethren Church.

The union was made easier because of the theological traditions in the Wesleyan heritage, similar ecclesiastical structures and relationships which dated back almost 200 years.

With 73 annual conferences in the United States and 23 in other nations, the Bicentennial of American Methodism marks an important milestone in its history. Members across the nation offer praise to God through Jesus Christ for creating and sustaining grace and seek further grace from God, as they face a third century of ministry.

AUTHOR'S NOTE: As stated earlier in the series, the author is deeply indebted to Dr. Charles Yrigoyen Jr. for his 'Brief History of the United Methodist'.

He is General Secretary of the General Commission on Archives and History of the United Methodist Church.

The last four articles of this series will be devoted to the history of local Methodist churches and institutions.

Arbor Day Foundation suggests organization fund-raising idea

Local organizations interested in fund-raising can now sell trees through a program offered by the National Arbor Day Foundation.

Clubs, churches, school and scout groups, and other organizations can sell trees in their community and make a profit of $1.25 on each tree sold.

The trees available—red maple, black walnut, weeping willow, sugar maple, purple leaf plum, thornless honey locust, tulip trees and pine oak trees—are each two to three feet tall and cost the customer $3.50 each.

"Trees are an unusual fund-raising idea, very different from the usual candy or cookies. Trees can be a profitable fund-raiser because many people will buy several," John Rosenow, the Foundation's executive director, said.

"And the organizations will be carrying out community-improvement projects at the same time."

"The Foundation will mail the trees directly to the customer's home address this fall. We will include complete planting instructions and a guarantee that the trees will grow next spring or we replace them free. The local sponsoring organization never has to handle the trees," Rosenow said.

The National Arbor Day Foundation, a nonprofit organization, is working to improve the quality of life throughout the country by encouraging tree planting. The Foundation sponsors national Tree City USA, Conservation Trees and Arbor Day programs.

OPRY'S BEST

"Best of Live from the Grand Ole Opry," over an hour of highlights of favorite televised Opry shows for PBS, will be rebroadcast at 8 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 23, on Mississippi ETV. The special was first seen on ETV last March.

Among the blue-ribbon performances recalled for this show are those by Bill Monroe, Barbara Mandrell, Minnie Pearl, Ernest Tubbs, Roy Acuff, Grandpa Jones, Porter Wagoner and Ronnie Milsap.

The Grand Ole Opry had its beginning in 1925 in the studio of Nashville's WSM radio, where George D. Hay launched "The WSM Barn Dance." The rapidly growing audience for the Grand Ole Opry forced it to move out of the WSM studios into a succession of auditoriums and halls.

The Opry broadcast from the Reiman Auditorium for a number of years. That auditorium is gone now, replaced with an ultra-modern, technically sophisticated hall, just outside of Nashville called "Opryland, USA." "Best of Live from the Grand Ole Opry" takes a look at this newer setting, which houses thousands of fans and a "who's who" of country music artists.

Supervisors Association picks McDonald

Harrison County Supervisor William J. McDonald was elected second vice president of the Mississippi Association of Supervisors at the group's recent annual convention in Biloxi.

McDonald, currently serving his third term as Harrison County District 3 supervisor, also will serve as a member of the MAS executive and legislative committees this year. Last year, he held the joint posts a third vice president and education committee chairman.

"We are privileged to have Billy McDonald as one of our association officers," MAS Executive Director Jesse Greer said. "He made numerous contributions in his dual offices last year, and this year he will play an important role in our continuing efforts to improve county government to better serve all Mississippians."

Prior to his 1976 election as supervisor, McDonald was staff manager for Diamondhead Corporation. In addition to this present public duties, he is in the real estate investment business, and he operates a small pecan farm.

McDonald is former vice-chairman of the Gulf Coast Wastewater Commission and former treasurer of the Harrison

BILLY McDONALD

County CETA Program.

He is a member of the Pass Christian and Long Beach Chambers of Commerce, the Pass Christian Yacht Club, the Pass Christian Isles Golf Club, the St. Stanislaus Sideline Club and the Long Beach High School Booster Club. McDonald graduated from St. Stanislaus High School and received a BA in health and education from the University of Southern Mississippi.

He is married to the former Elaine Nixon, and they have three children: Brent, India and Tyler.

The McDonalds are members of Our Lady of Lourdes Catholic Church.

County school registration dates listed

New student registration for Hancock County Schools will be held Monday and Tuesday, Aug. 27-28 at the school which the student is to attend.

Registration hours each day are from 8:30 a.m. until 2:30 p.m.

First grade students must be six-years-old on or before Sept. 1.

All new students should bring a health certificate of compliance with immunization requirements and a certified copy of their birth certificate. Classes begin Friday, Aug. 31.

Musings

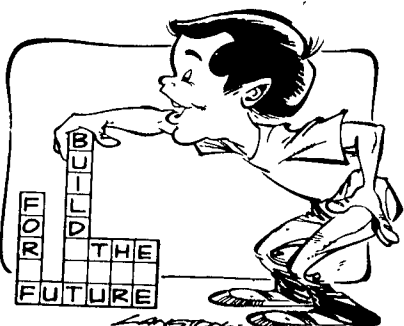

A goad was a pole about 8 feet long with a sharpened or iron-tipped point used to urge oxen forward. When Jesus appeared to Saul on the way to Damascus, he compared him to an obstinate animal kicking against the pricks of the goad. The preacher compares wise words to goads.

OPPOSERS OF A DEER HUNT on NSTL property, which include residents of Hancock, Pearl River and Harrison Counties, sign a petition to be presented Tuesday at a meeting of the Mississippi Wildlife Conservation Commission. (Staff photo by Nan Patton Ehrbright)

Officials of a newly-formed 80-member Gulf Coast Sportsmen's Club agreed.

"The deer have been there for 25 years," Jerry Favre, Bay St. Louis member, said.

"They're tame. There would be no challenge for the hunter."

"We want to see another study conducted by unbiased people," Hancock Board of Supervisors President A.A. Kellar said.

"We're not through. We'll go to court if we have to."

Hatten said she has contacted Mississippi's Congressional delegation and has received a letter from Senator John Stennis saying he will contact someone from NASA to discuss the matter.

Ferrell said a petition containing about 1,000 signatures will be presented to the Mississippi Wildlife Conservation Commission at its meeting Tuesday.

The petition and copies of the study will also be presented to the Army and Mississippi's Congressional members, he said.

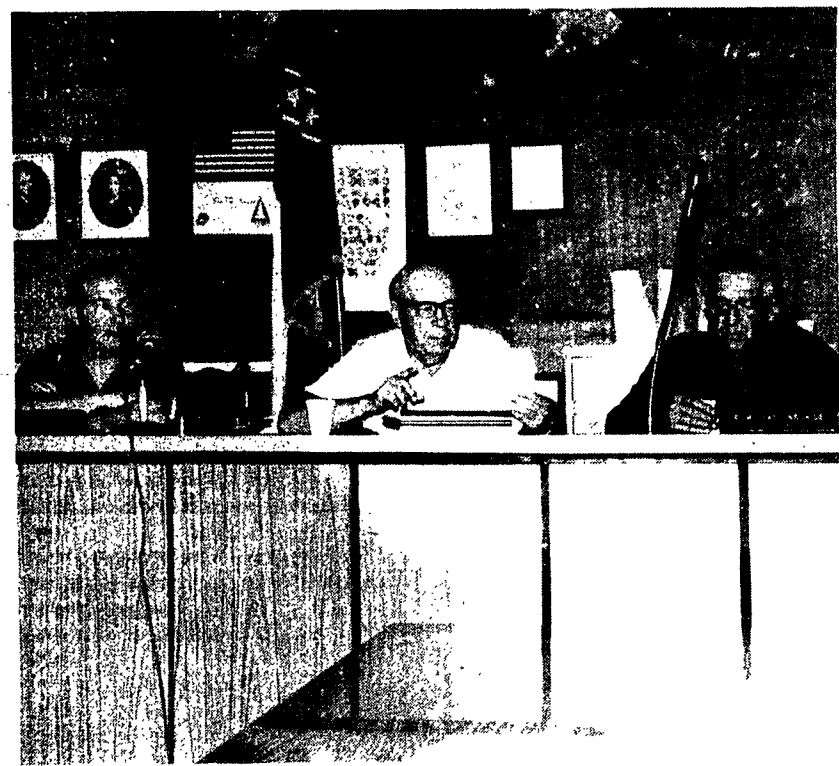

Earlier Friday NASA Public Affairs Officer Mack Herring released the following statement which he said is NASA's official position in the controversy:

"NASA has traditionally been opposed to hunting of any wildlife within the fee areas of the NSTL. This position remains unchanged."

"The U.S. Army Ammunition Plant has announced plans for a bow-and-arrow hunting season on lands it occupies in the northern portion of the fee area. For further information concerning hunting on this particular portion of NSTL, persons should contact officials of the U.S. Army Ammunition Plant."

"NASA has assisted and supported the Army since the original decision to locate the ammunition plant at NSTL, and will continue to be supportive of this important national defense facility."

"The Army is one of several federal and state agencies located at NSTL which NASA works cooperatively with in the best interests of the U.S. government."

JAIL COMMITTEE MEETS—Among those attending Saturday's Hancock County Jail Committee meeting were, from right, Sheriff Ronald Peterson, Committee Chairman Terrence Feeney and Committee Vice-chairman Jan Brameyer. After a lengthy discussion the committee authorized Feeney to recommend to the board of supervisors at their next meeting construction of a new jail only on the November ballot. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas)

Robert W. Seaton, a spectator, commented, "I feel you might get more confidence from the public if there were an opinion from the outside to go along with the local one."

"Also, there are many young architects in the area, and you may want to consider a design competition for a new facility."

Feeney explained the feasibility study for the jail was prepared by local architect Fred Wagner and New Orleans architect N.C. Curtis Jr.

Curtis was reported to be an "expert" in jail construction by Noonan.

A report was given by Noonan for Wagner, who was unable to attend the meeting due to a prior commitment.

Noonan reported that Wagner said, "First of all, no one is breathing down our neck for an addition to the courthouse, but we are on notice for a new jail."

Noonan continued with Wagner's message, "If we pass a jail issue now, this doesn't mean we cannot add to the courthouse later."

Charles Gottschalk, election commissioner, in commenting on the last election on the jail issue stated it was defeated primarily in the northern end of the county.

Gottschalk said, "After 30 years of observing Hancock County politics, I feel if both a courthouse expansion and new jail were placed on a ballot, they would lose."

"I think the courthouse expansion should be left for later, even knowing the election commissioners have to meet in the Circuit Clerk's office as we are cramped for space," Gottschalk added.

Geraldine Lang, committee member, stated she felt better efforts should be made in informing the public about the matter.

The group indicated efforts would be made to select wording the public would better understand on the ballot, with many saying "Criminal Justice Facility" was not understood by some voters to mean a "new jail."

Perniciaro noted a jail must be located within one-fourth mile of a county courthouse.

Also, he said, no election is needed to approve an addition to a courthouse.

Feeney plans to present the committee's recommendations to the board of supervisors on Aug. 23.

DON'T KILL TAME DEER—Dr. Eugene Watkins of Picayune, a retired Navy captain and a hunter, brought along a deer head to a Friday demonstration to oppose deer hunting on NSTL property. "I'm against hunting tame deer," he said. "It would be just like shooting fish in a barrel." (Staff photo by Nan Patton Ehrbright)

Du Pont expanding health programs

A new employee health improvement program, Health Horizons, is being introduced by Du Pont.

The program will be made available to the company's more than 100 sites nationwide. Employee participation is voluntary.

Health Horizons will increase emphasis placed on health promotion and counseling offered in the company's existing medical program. It will be phased in at participating sites during the next three years.

"Health Horizons is intended to help employees reduce their chances of preventable illness in the future while living healthier, more productive lives now," said Dr. Bruce W. Karrh, vice president for Safety, Health and Environmental Affairs.

Employees will be introduced to Health Horizons either during their regular physical examinations or in special group sessions.

If employees wish to participate, they will be asked to complete a Health Risk Survey which has questions about health habits such as smoking, diet, stress management and fitness.

Based on the survey, each employee will receive an individualized confidential Health Risk Appraisal indicating those habits which may contribute to good health and those which may work against it.

With the help of the site medical staff, employees will select health improvement activities to suit their needs.

A variety of educational materials and activities will be offered through the program, including on-site courses such as stop-smoking clinics; self-help kits to improve health habits; and health education modules for safety meetings.

"Health Horizons has been received with tremendous enthusiasm at the pilot sites during the past year," said Dr. Burford W. Culpepper, director of Du Pont's Medical Division.

In addition to regular physical examinations, the current medical program includes epidemiological studies; alcohol and drug abuse rehabilitation and hearing conservation.

MRS. ROD STEVEN WARD

Ward—Milazzo

SUNDAY, AUGUST 19, 1984-1B

Aline Virginia Milazzo became the bride of Rod Steven Ward in a candlelight ceremony July 28 in Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church in Bay St. Louis with Rev. Henry McInerney officiating.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Milazzo of Bay St. Louis. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. David Ward Sr. of Ocean Springs.

Large arrangements of magnolia, pink dogwood and magnolia foliage adorned the altar. Altar candelabra as well as those lining the center aisle were decorated with magnolias, foliage and satin bows. The magnolias were handmade by several of the bride's aunts.

Nuptial music was provided by organist Tom Bourdin of Pass Christian and soloist Lorin Louis of Jackson.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of white chiffon over bridal taffeta with Queen Anne neckline and fitted empire bodice enhanced with Alencon lace embellished with seed pearls and iridescents. The long, tapered sleeves had inserts of pearl decorated Alencon lace. The gracefully flowing skirt was completely bordered with lace and swept to a cathedral train. Appliques of lace were strewn across the front and sides of the skirt.

Her tiered veil of illusion was held in place by a Camelot cap, with Alencon lace appliques framing her face to shoulder length. Lace appliques were strewn across the back of the veil, which extended to the length of her gown.

She carried a cascade of silk roses, stephanotis, lily-of-the-valley and white orchids with English ivy, picot ribbon and pearls.

Virginia Kenny and Ruth Ann Milazzo of Bay St. Louis, sisters of the bride, were matron and maid of honor, respectively.

Bridesmaids were Terry Cates of Ocean Springs, sister of the groom; Michelle Lyons of Jennings, La.; Ginger Daniel of Gulfport; Marsha Bryant of Fort Walton Beach, Fla.; Beverly May of Jayess, Miss.; and Judy Wilkinson of New Orleans.

The attendants were identically attired in formal gowns of suede rose jacquard taffeta, each with sculptured bodice featuring detachable princess pouf sleeves and fitted cummerbund waistline above full, gathered skirt. They carried silk cascade bouquets of light mauve roses, miniature carnations, stephanotis and ivy and wore headpieces fashioned from maline puffs and silk forget-me-nots.

Miss Laurin May of Jayess, Miss., was flower girl. She wore a suede rose jacquard taffeta dress, a floral wreath, and carried a basket of matching flowers.

Alvin Winans of Gulfport was best man.

Groomsmen were David Ward Sr., father of the groom, David Ward Jr., brother of the groom, and Steve Cates, brother-in-law of the groom, all of Ocean Springs; Junie Schuman of Biloxi; Mitch Goplen of Billings, Mont.; Mike Kenny of Bay St. Louis, brother-in-law of the bride; and Martin Schwegman of New Orleans, cousin of the bride.

Ring bearers were Billy Kenny of Bay St. Louis, nephew of the bride and Brad Cates of Ocean Springs, nephew of the groom.

Mrs. Milazzo chose for her daughter's wedding a mauve gown of tiered chiffon with fitted bodice and brief capelet sleeves. The mother of the groom was attired in a mint-green gown of silesta with high, jewel neckline, fitted waist and gracefully flared skirt.

A reception followed the ceremony at Diamondhead Country Club.

On return from a wedding trip to Fort Walton Beach, Fla., the couple resides in Bay St. Louis. The bride is employed as a computer systems analyst with Mississippi Power Co. in Gulfport and the groom is captain of the Western Wave, operating out of Houston, Tex.

Johnston—Payne

First Baptist Church in Bay St. Louis was the setting for the July 21 marriage of Julia Jeanne Payne and Raymond William Johnston. The Rev. Nathan Barber officiated at the afternoon double ring ceremony.

The bride is a daughter of Ellen C. Moreau of Bay St. Louis and Dr. Dwight A. Payne of Columbus, Miss. The groom's parents are Betty F. Johnston of Jackson and Cecil W. Johnston of Savannah, Ga.

A brass bridal arch decorated with ivy and white tapers was flanked on either side by standing arrangements of white blossoms and satin ribbon. Ivy adorned the brass kneeling bench, while ivy and white satin ribbons marked the family pews.

Musical selections were provided by organist Mrs. Gail Carr and soloist Danita Scianna, who sang "Looking Through The Eyes of Love" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her stepfather,

Louis J. Moreau, the bride wore a formal gown of soft chantilly lace over bridal taffeta. The fitted bodice was overlaid with silk venise lace embroidered with pearls and featured a Queen Anne neckline. The long, tapered sleeves of lace closed with cuffs of matching jeweled venise lace. The full bouffant skirt waterfalld with tiers of organza ruffles and lace, which spilled to a cathedral train.

Silk illusion was attached to a wreath of baby's breath and white sweetheart roses with seed pearls and picot ribbon bow. She carried a cascade of 21 white roses with baby's breath and lavender statice with ivy, lace and white ribbon streamers.

Mrs. Beverly S. Dawsey of Houston, Tex., was matron of honor.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Katherine G. Wilks of Pascagoula and Patricia E. Payne of Columbus, sisters of the bride; Rose Marie Beaugez of Bay St. Louis and Cynthia C. Johnston of Hattiesburg, sister of the groom.

Lauren Burns of Jackson, cousin of the groom, was flower girl. Kamann E. Wilks of Pascagoula, niece of the bride, was honorary flower girl.

The attendants wore formal gowns of white chantilly lace over lavender taffeta, each with fitted bodice and ruffled portrait neckline of lace trimmed with satin ribbon and worn off-the-shoulder. The full lace skirt was bordered with a wide flounce with ruffled back. They wore short white lace gloves and wreaths of baby's breath, white sweetheart roses and lavender streamers.

Each carried a single stemmed white rose with lavender statice and ribbon streamers.

Cecil Johnston served his son as best man.

Groomsmen were John E. Dawsey of Houston, Tex.; Michael H. Johnston of Petal, Miss., cousin of the groom; and Timothy Cory and Ronald Barnes, both of Atlanta, Ga.

Ushers were Scott Anderson, Donald Ginn and Michael W. Moore, all of Bay St. Louis.

Manning (Spike) Wilks of Pascagoula, nephew of the bride, was ring bearer.

A reception followed at the American Legion Home in Bay St. Louis. Lavender and white streamers and bells decorated the home. The gift table featured dolls depicting the bridal party. Bridesmaids in hand crocheted dresses were designed by the groom's grandmother, Mrs. Alice Flynn.

Assisting at the reception were Danita Scianna, Julie Barrett, Mary Ann Wilkerson and Mrs. Janice Lynn, all of Bay St. Louis and Nancy Murphy of Columbus.

On return from a wedding trip to Pensacola and Fort Walton Beach, Fla., the couple resides in Jackson.

MR. AND MRS. RAYMOND WILLIAM JOHNSTON

Frisbie—Gilmore

JOELLYN FRISBIE

Mr. and Mrs. William Morris Frisbie of Bay St. Louis announce the engagement of their daughter, Joellyn Elizabeth Frisbie to Timothy Caldwell Gilmore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Taylor Gilmore of Bay St. Louis. An early September wedding is planned at Christ Episcopal Church.

Miss Frisbie is the maternal granddaughter of Mrs. Jake Fallo of Biloxi and the late Mr. James Tilman Pruett of Meridian, and the paternal granddaughter of Mrs. Howard Reid of Columbia, Mo. and the late Mr. Hayden Reed Frisbie.

She was graduated from Bay High School where she was a member of Who's Who Among American High School Students. She made her debut in 1981 at the Gulf Coast Debutante Ball. Miss Frisbie is a student at University of Southern Mississippi.

Mr. Gilmore's maternal grandparents are Mrs. L.J. Caldwell of Pass Christian and the late Mr. Caldwell.

Paternal grandparents are Mrs. Rella Gilmore of Meridian and the late Mr. M.A. Gilmore formerly of Bay St. Louis.

Mr. Gilmore was graduated from Coast Episcopal High School in Pass Christian, attended Marion Military Institute in Marion, Ala. and was graduated from Mississippi State University in Agricultural Science. He is employed with G-6 Ranch.

Wheat—Green

St. Michael's Catholic Church in Biloxi was the setting Saturday, July 28, for the nuptial ceremony uniting Annette Marie Green of Biloxi and Ronald C. Wheat Jr. of Vanceale.

The early afternoon ceremony was performed by Monsignor Gregory Johnson.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Annette Seymour, organist and Sherry Grantham, soloist. Cynthia Green, sister of the bride, served as a lector.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. Guy E. Green of Biloxi, and Mrs. Joan Clark of Ocean Springs. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Ronald C. Wheat of Vanceale.

Maternal grandparents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Melarone of Biloxi. Paternal grandparents are the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Green of Biloxi.

The groom's maternal grandparents are Mrs. Pauline Culver of Beaumont, Tex. and the late Alan B. Culver. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Phillippo of Bay St. Louis.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of white organza fashioned with a Queen Anne neckline, sheer bishop sleeves, and a Renaissance bodice, accented by Raschel lace and tiny pearls. The slender skirt was accented by a crystal beaded chiffon border which swept to a bouffant tiered chapel train of Raschel lace and crystal pleating. She also wore a small-brim derby covered with embroidered chantilly lace and tiny pearls, with a turned upside brim with silk flowers and fingertip illusion.

Attending the bride as matron of honor was her sister, Gwendolyn Tootle.

Bridesmaids were Rhonda Jones, sister of the groom, Michele Cridde, Lynn Hodges and Tracy Myers, cousin of the groom.

Flower girls were Jennifer Green, daughter of the bride and Mindy Holden.

Kevin Holden served as best man. Groomsmen were Regan Wheat, brother of the groom; Thomas Jones, brother-in-law of the groom; Dennis Cowart and Roy Tootle, brother-in-law of the bride.

Ushers were Anthony W. Clark Sr., stepfather of the bride, and Mark Franklin. The ring bearer was Francis A. Tetarico.

A reception was held at the Mississippi Gulf Coast Coliseum Convention Center following the ceremony. After a honeymoon trip to Disneyworld, the couple will reside in Bay St. Louis.

MR. AND MRS. RONALD C. WHEAT JR.

Symphony Orchestra Guild slates fall dinner-dance

Ms. Robert P. Phenix, president of the Gulf Coast Symphony Orchestra Guild, has announced plans for the dinner dance set for Saturday, Sept. 16, at the Biloxi Hilton. The event will benefit the Gulf Coast Symphony Orchestra and will precede the first symphony concert of the 1984-85 season on Saturday, Sept. 22.

The theme of the ball is "Up, Up and Away...Symphony Season." The Montage Orchestra will play for dancing at eight and dinner will be at seven with a social hour at six. Black tie is optional and reservations will be available until Sept. 10.

Ms. Donna Ellis is chairman for the ball and she has announced the following chairmen of arrangements: Ms. Lawrence Wright, decorations; Ms. E.C. Hamilton, tickets; Ms. Walter Dustmann and Ms. Cleve Allen, table reservations; Ms. John S. Howkins, door prizes; Ms. Kathleen Schwartz, place cards; Ms. Ann Anderson and Ms. Clara Nassar, concert subscriptions; Ms. Wilfred Simons, finance; Ms. R.E. Murfee, hostesses; and Katharine Rea, publicity.

Tickets for the dinner are $50 per person and may be secured from Ms. E.C. Hamilton or any of the committee members.

DAR Chapter names Constitution Week chair

At a recent executive meeting of the Friendship Oak Chapter, National Society Daughters of the American Revolution at the Long Beach home of Mrs. R.C. Willens, Mrs. Nunez C. Pilet of Bay St. Louis was named chairman of the group's Constitution Week observance.

Mrs. Philip Davenport, regent of the chapter said, "Constitution Week commemorates the signing of the United States Constitution. It is the oldest constitution still in active use in the world today, and is the basic document of our government. During the week of Sept. 17 through Sept. 21 our national society urges all citizens to study the constitution and reflect on the liberties guaranteed for all Americans. It has had several years of success in working at a local level to promote Constitution Week."

She said that, through her years of service, the project has been well received by individuals, civic organizations, church groups, and political leaders.

In tracing the history of Constitution Week Pilet explained, "By an act of Congress Constitution Week was established in 1956. Each year the President of the United States as well as the governors of each of our 50 states, and local dignitaries issue proclamations, that Constitution Week might be brought to the attention of all of our citizens."

"We encourage a show of patriotism by displaying the flag at our country, by suggesting that our church leaders include a prayer for our country in their prayers of service, that our teachers in schools, both public and parochial, stress the freedoms outlined in the Constitution: freedom of religion, the press, and speech and the right of assembly. It is also suggested that we remain alert for it is our duty to protect these rights," she added.

Pilet said she had received many helpful suggestions that would get young people more involved in the project.

"All suggestions are most welcome. We are thinking of contests such as essays, speeches, dramatics, poster competitions, and other creative projects," she said. "Let's all join together to make this year's Constitution Week a memorable one."

MR. AND MRS. JAMES FORD BEECH

Beech-Shanahan

Long Beach Missionary Baptist Church was the setting for the afternoon wedding July 21 of Tina Maylen Shanahan and James Ford Beech.

The bride is the daughter of Elder and Mrs. David Shanahan of Poplarville, formerly of Bay St. Louis. The groom is the son of Elder and Mrs. James W. Beech of Biloxi.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Eld. James W. Beech, father of the groom.

The couple repeated their vows before an arch entwined with green ivy and pink crepe myrtle. On each side of the altar stood white wicker baskets holding arrangements of pastel flowers. Two pots of green ivy hung in the background. Three-tiered candelabra holding pink flaming tapers were placed on each end of the piano with an arrangement of pastel flowers in the center.

Nuptial music was furnished by Rodney Beech, brother of the groom.

Escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of white chantilly lace over satin. The fitted bodice featured a Queen Anne neckline accented with jeweled lace appliques. The full flowing skirt had tiers of chantilly lace which swept to a chapel-length train. A band of small white roses held her fingertip veil of illusion in place. She carried a bouquet of white carnations, stephanotis, baby's breath and small pink wildflowers surrounded by white lace, net, and satin bows with satin streamers.

Mona Williamson of Bay St. Louis attended her sister as matron of honor.

Brenda Cuevas of Kiln and Doris Smith of Long Beach served as bridesmaids. Each wore a floor-length gown of pink chantilly lace over taffeta and a pink wide-brimmed hat and they carried a bouquet of pink wildflowers surrounded by net, bows and streamers.

March of Dimes
BIRTH DEFECTS FOUNDATION

Bryan Williamson of Bay St. Louis, brother-in-law of the bride, served the groom as best man. Groomsmen were Monty Flemming of Picayune, uncle of the groom, and Scott Flemming of Picayune, cousin of the groom.

Mrs. Shanahan chose a lavender silk dress with matching accessories for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Beech wore a purple suit with matching accessories.

A reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church following the wedding. The hall was decorated with pastel flowers and pink streamers.

The bride's table, overlaid with a white lace tablecloth, held the four-tiered wedding cake. Candelabra holding flaming pink tapers were on each side.

Mrs. Inez Waltman and Mrs. Brenda Shanahan hosted the reception, assisted by Mrs. Bobbi Damiens, Mrs. Mary Parker, Mrs. Sarah Robertson and Mrs. Freida Shanahan, all aunts of the bride.

Missy Damiens, Regina Parker and Sunserae Shanahan, all cousins of the bride, served as tea girls.

For the honeymoon trip the bride wore a red knit dress featuring a white lace yoke and sleeves, white accessories and a corsage of red roses.

The couple plans to reside in Bay St. Louis where the bride is employed with Family Dollar Store and the groom is employed with Mason Chamberlain at NSTL.

I'm always on the lookout for different "little somethings" as Winnie-the-Pooh of the famed stories calls them—those sweet cookies or concoctions which add so much to the tea or coffee tray or snack for the youngsters, or just to munch at will.

Pecan cookies are my special weakness, so I was delighted to taste Melba Newton's Praline cookies at coffee time the other day—they're delicious. Here are:

PRALINE COOKIES

2 sticks margarine 1 cup chopped pecans
1 cup light brown sugar Graham crackers for lining sheet pan

Melt the Margarine, then stir in the sugar and bring to a boil. Boil rapidly for two minutes. Add the pecans and mix in well.

Pour the mixture over the graham crackers, with which you have lined the sheet pan, single layer, of course. Bake at 350 degrees for 10 minutes. Cool to break apart.

Another favorite is:

PECAN CONFECTIONS

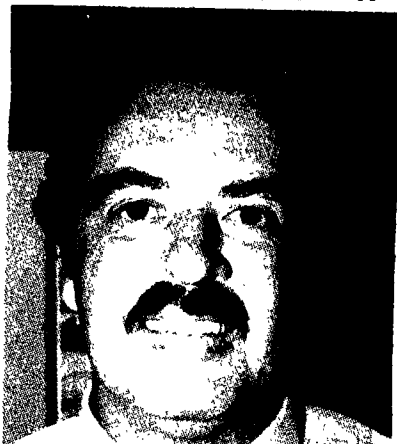

1 egg white 1 Tbsp. flour
1 cup light brown sugar 1 cup chopped pecans
1/8 tsp. salt

Beat the egg white (I use a wire whisk) to a stiff froth. Add, very gradually, the cup of sugar mixed with the flour and salt. Fold in the cup of pecans, and drop by rounded teaspoonfuls onto greased cookie sheets, leaving space between, as they tend to run together at times. Bake in a 350 degree oven for 15 minutes.

Let rest a bit before removing from sheets.

One of my sons prefers these almost overbaked, as he likes the burnt sugar taste. These are really sort of burnt sugar cookies at that. And a couple of my grandsons prefer the cookies without the pecans or with ground pecans—so I make them every which way, and they disappear fast.

YOU WILL LOSE YOUR LICENSE

You're Drunk.
Under Mississippi's new Implied Consent Law, if you are driving under the influence of alcohol, you're just asking to have your license suspended, for a minimum of 90 days.

GOVERNOR'S HIGHWAY SAFETY PROGRAM

"The power of alcohol to stimulate the soul is the ultimate reason why people drink"

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following article is the result of a grant to the Mississippi Press Association by the Mississippi Committee for the Humanities.

ALCOHOL AND MYSTIC EXPERIENCING
By Michael Harrington
Department of Philosophy and Religion
University of Mississippi

Raising the legal age for beer and increasing penalties for drunk driving are only the latest bubbles in the continuing public ferment over alcohol.

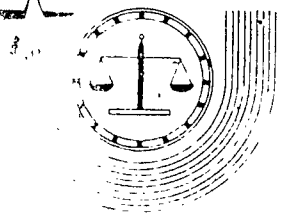

Consumption of this aqua vitae has always been celebrated in Mississippi despite religious fundamentalism and more enlightened reform.

But why? Critics correctly note that its enjoyment is acquired rather than natural, its physical effects toxic, its social indulgence too often ending in embarrassment, sickness, and even death.

Were alcohol only a poison, its consumption would have never become so popular, yet the literature of the ages testifies in its timeless appeal.

From the hieroglyphics of ancient Egypt come the first drunken speech and the first temperance tract. A princess proclaims: "Give me eighteen bowls of wine! Oh, how I love being drunk!"

BECAUSE THE PEOPLE MUST KNOW

NOTICE TO BIDDERS
Sealed bids will be received by the Hancock County Board of Education, 126 West Street, Bay St. Louis, Mississippi, on Friday, September 4, 1984 up to and including 5:00 P.M. for an Electric Motion Calling System for the Hancock County School District. Specifications are on file in the Office of the Superintendent of Education. The Board reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

But the Book of Ani warns: "Do not drink an entire keg of beer by yourself. For you will speak unintelligibly—and your drinking companions will cry: 'Get this drunk out of here!' Then you will be found lying on the ground and helpless, like a small child."

Plato calls wine a gift from the gods, and Socrates, in the dialogue 'Symposium,' is admirably held to out drink every man in Athens and show it less.

Although a Japanese contemporary sardonically reflected, "With the first cup, man drinks wine; with the second, wine drinks man; with the third, wine drinks man."

Noah's celebration of the ark's voyage culminates in public nudity and later in a curse uttered out of a raging hangover. A drunken David dances naked before the altar, yet his disapproving wife is condemned for her criticism rather than he for his conduct.

Proverbs urge strong drink for ease of the dying and the comfort of the grieving but calls wine a "mockery." Jesus blesses a wedding by changing water into wine and makes it a symbol of himself in the Last Supper.

Such is the force of alcohol that neither ancient nor recent attempts to ban its use have been successful. The "Shu Ching" (Canon of History) regretfully announced around 650 BC that "to prohibit and secure total abstinence from it is beyond the power even of sages." Centuries later the Roman historian Pliny stated in his 'Historia Naturalis' that "in no part of the world is drunkenness ever at a loss."

An exasperated Genghis Khan, cruellest of conquerors, concluded: "A drunk soldier is like a man hit on the head, his skill and wisdom is useless. Better to get drunk only three times a month. Better still to get drunk only once a month. Best yet never to get drunk. But who should expect the impossible of a man?"

More recent exercises in futility have been the American experiment with Prohibition, the Soviet restrictions on vodka productions, and Islam's never-ending struggle to enforce the Prophet's ban.

The history of human infaturation with alcohol asks: "What power does alcohol have such that neither despotic nor enlightened, society nor religion, can diminish its appeal?"

Calling it "spirits" reveals its power. Alcohol transforms awareness by heightening ordinary experiencing. This euphoric high is also described as "being happy," or "lit," or "on a roll." This "attitude adjustment" enters into an exciting way of experiencing on everyday world usually so commonplace and ordinary. Under its influence, there is profundity in even the humblest event, wonder in the simplest detail, and meaningfulness in everything.

Mystic experiencing has always been a part of human life. The earliest expressions of religious feeling were often induced by alcohol—e.g., the Neolithic communities made drinking a ceremonial rite to enabling direct communication with the divine.

Sir James Frazier in his 'The Golden Bough' documents how many societies regarded intoxication as a kind of divine possession, especially the Greek and Roman mystery religious cults.

Mystical experiencing is little known today except in the crude form offered through alcohol. This is unfortunate. For all too soon the toxin of alcohol erases the initial euphoria and hurls one from too briefly experienced heights into the physical illness signaled by vertigo and nausea.

Again, euphemisms correctly describe its dark side: "stoned" or "blasted" or "wiped out," "destroyed" and "blown away." Among it psychic correlates area an edgy temper or murderous rage, sadness and depression. The end of the alcoholic experience is the complete loss of awareness in the coma.

The power of alcohol to stimulate the soul is the ultimate reason why people drink. Such stimulation makes possible the functions alcohol serves and so the lesser reasons for its popularity. It explains why habitual drinking and addiction occurs: The memory of how it once opened the soul lures the drinker ever back again to recapture that feeling.

Here also is why its restriction usually fails. Forbidding alcoholic beverages addresses only the symptom of a great need, rather than that need itself to achieve greater spiritual awareness. For unless that urge for the life of the spirit can be satisfiable by other means, it is futile either to emphasize the dangers or increase the punishments.

Whether to raise the drinking age or imprison drunken drivers is part of a far greater challenge: how to enter into spiritual experiencing regularly and at will without impairing our other forms of awareness. For alcohol is only a lure to the spiritual growth whose achievement requires reexamination and renewal of our spiritual lives through that mystic experiencing.
